"Were it possible to furnish the market," at a reasonable price, with a preparation of meat combining in itself the albuminous together with the extractive principles, such a preparation would have to be preferred to extractum carnis, for it would contain all the nutritive constituents of meat. I have before stated that in preparing the Extract of Meat the albuminous principles remain the extractive principles by the Liebig proin the residue; they are most nutritive, and this is certainly a great disadvantage.

Was invented to realise Baron von Liebig's desire for a meat food that would contain not only the stimulating properties of flesh as all Meat Extracts and Beef Teas dobut also the nourishing properties of flesh which Meat Extracts and Beef Teas do not. This has been accomplished by first taking cess (which is akin to home made beef tea) and then adding albumen and fibrine, procured from the flesh of other oxen roasted and finely ground to powder; the combina-

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

France and Russia. The visit of the CZAR to France appears to have cemented still more firmly the alliance which has long been supposed to exist between the two countries, and Reuter's telegram of 23rd instant shows that so far as the Far East is concerned the allies are determined to work together. Russia has, we are told, signified her intention of cooperating with all her strength to the success of French enterprises in the Far East, and it is hardly to be supposed that France, on her part, has not made a similar promise Following close upon the heels of this first telegram comes one which states that Russia is about to borrow money from her ally, and does not require any very great intelligence to read between the lines and see that it is Russia who will ultimately benefit by the arrangement. France, it is well known, has designs upon Yunnan and the Two Kwangs, while Russia's present designs are concentrated in the North. Thus it is hardly to be expected that Russia will for a time abandon her march southwards to help France, while it is not at all unlikely that France, who has already pushed up north with the rest of the Powers, may be caioled into assisting Russia for a time on the understanding that, so soon as matters are satisfactorily settled, Russia will return the compliment. Neither rance nor Russia can be looked upon as successful colonizing Powers, and it would be a thousand pities to see any large portion of the Chinese Empire handed over to them. So soon as either became possessed of any portion of China, it would mean the closing of the open door against the trade of the rest of the world. and that is the great object against which Great Britain, as the first trading Power, should fight. It is to be hoped that if France and Russia work, as we believe they intend to do, for the break up of China, that the other Powers, with Great Britain at their head will signify their intention of maintaining the integrity of the Empire. We do not want China, but we want her trade, and the best way to maintain our hold upon it will be to prevent France and Russia seizing territory. What a pity it is that China is not in a position to help herself. Could a reformed Government but be placed in Power and backed up by Great Britain andany other nation interested in maintaining China's integrity, then Russia might once for all be checked. But nations nowadays do not willingly enter into war on another's account without some assurance of ultimate gain. It does not pay to be too philanthropical nowadays, and it is doubtful if China could pay the price demanded for protection.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

THE ARMED ROBBERY CASE was continued this morning, the police evidence being gone through and finished. The case was adjourned till Monday.

THERE WAS ADMITTED to the Mortuary yesterday the body of a man, Tse Hop, from the Woo Kee Matshed in Des Vocux Road, The cause of death was fractured ribs and it ternal hemorrhage.

WE NOTICE Captain I. Groves, more commonly known by his disrespectful intimates as "Tommy Groyes"; is back in Hongkong with his wife and family of two. Whatever Captain Groves intentions are he knows the bears the good wishes of all his old friends. LAFFAN TELEGRAM of Aug., 23rd

A NEW SERVICE CLUB-the Imperial Service as it is to be called-comes into existence as the result of the South African war. All who have served in South Africa, whether Regulars, Colonials, Volunteers, or Yeomanry, are eligible as members. The club has secured a good corner house at 84, Piccadilly for its home, and, with a strong committee of distinguished officers in various branches of the service, including Major Lord Rosmead and Sir William MacCorinac, should have a happy future. This makes them ath service club in London.

LAST NIGHT about 11 p.m. a fire occurred in Austin Road, Kowloon. It appears that an old bungalow belonging to Messrs, E. D. Sassoon & Co., which had been unoccupied for some time, was being used temporarily as a dwelling house by some Chinese bricklayers. They had fixed up the roof with matting, which caught fire from a kerosine lamp they were using. On the arrival of the police it was seen to be hopeless to try and save the structure in the absence of water, and there being no danger of its spreading, it was allowed to burn itself out. The damage is estimated at about $50.

DR. LOUIS LENOEL, writing to an Amiens paper, says he was introduced in 1900 to the ex-King of Dahomey, who was living, not in a fortress, but in a villa. Behanzin receives an allowance of £800 a year from the French Government and being thrifty is able to put a great part of this sum by. His son is one of the best pupils of the Lycce of St. Pierre, the chief town of Martinique. The royal villa, which is falling into decay, is unfurnished and filthy. Behanzin and his court sleep on mats, and the cooking is done in a verandah. Behanzin has with him his consort, two daughters, and a maid of honour who does the cooking. The royal executioner, who shared his master's exile, died a couple of years ago. Behanzin is free to walk about in town, but he does not use this privilege, as the native negroes, proud of their position as French citizens, insult their black cousin whenever they see him.

LETTERS RECEIVED at Portsmouth on the 23rd ult. from the Channel Squadron show that considerable disaffection exists amongst the granted in recognition of their arduous work during the naval manœuvies, says a corre-During the past three weeks the squadron has been at Berehaven, a cheerless spot, engaged in simple exercises, which the men contend might just have well been performed at Portland, while each watch in turn enjoyed a few days' leave. As matters stand, however, they see no chance of obtaining general leave to visit, their homes

until November, when the squadron will escort the homeward bound Ophir to Spithead. There has been a serious epidemic of leavebreaking in the squadron since the conclusion of the manœuvres, and one day recently about 140 sailors, who had gone ashore the previous evening on night leave, were improperly absent from duty.

A DISAGREEABLE INCIDENT has occurred at an hotel in Westminster, where some 200 Americans are staying, says a mail paper. Early next month the Methodist Œcumenical Conference opens in London, and delegates are beginning to arrive from all parts of the world. Those already here include some nine coloured men, only one or two of whom are: actually negroes. All of them are highly educated gentlemen, two of them being native bishops, while one holds a professorship in the United States. Some of these delegates went to the hotel in question, and a few days ago six of the Americans-four gentlemen and two ladies-waited on the manager and requested him to send away the coloured visitors, intimating that if he could not see his way to do so, all the Americans would leave the hotel. The manager, after hearing the views of the deputation, took up a firm stand, and declared that he could not possibly accede to the suggestion. So long, he said, as the coloured gentlemen behaved themselves—and he had no reason to expect they would do otherwise—they had a right to remain, for the only conditions of admission to the hotel were good behaviour and punctual payment. The threat of the deputation was not carried out.

MR. BARTON WRIGHT and his Japanese company of exponents of Jujitsu, or, as it has been renamed here, Bartitsu, are performing at the Tivoli, says a home paper. The case with which you can overpower a much stronger opponent affords considerable interest to the spectators, "At a private rehearsal Tani and Uyeniski, exponents of the art, satisfactorily demonstrated the practical uses it can be put to, the successful application of which depends upon a thorough knowledge of anatomy and leverage. Tani and Uyeniski are small men, each weighing about nine stone, but are powerfully built and apparently have great strength in the legs, which play an important part in effecting the "throw." The falls on the stage that they took would be enough to stun an ordinary untrained person, but they did not even bruise themselves. One of them had a pole passed across his throat, and three men pressed down-on it at either end, while Mr. Dowest balanced himself on the wrestler's chest. Any man, the muscles of whose throat had not been specially trained, would have been strangled. This wrestler actually twisted round under the load, shook off Mr. Dowsett, and got his head clear of the pole. It was also found that, with the pole pressed against his throat by fairly nclive men, he could push them away easily, TOTTAM & CO. for EVENING DRESS

THE LONDON CHAMBER OF COM. MERCE have resolved to found a real system. of commercial education, it being folt that if. Great Britain is to hold her own in trade her future merchants must be better educated. Six Albert Rollit is the chairman of the commit. tee which has prepared this new departure. Courses of lectures by practical business men will be given on practical business subjects. The machinery of commerce and the specialities of particular branches of it will form one division. Commercial law, history, and geography, banking, currency, and book-keeping will comprise another. Great stress is laid on the special encouragement which will be given to foreign languages. Clerks will be equipped not only to deal with correspondence but to become intelligent commercial travellers in the distant markets of the world, LIEUTENANT SPEKE, who iwas in command of the Viper when she ran on the Alderr cy rocks during the late manœuvres, has been simply reprimanded by the Courtmartial at Portsmouth, and the reprimand, as one may easily read between the lines, is of the gentlest and most technical description. In effect the view of the Court was that Lieutenant Speke, being engaged in a warlike service in which speed and secrecy were more important than safety, did not take the precautions which are incumbent on the captain of a South-Western's. Channel Islands passenger boat. In war-time, we trust, the lieutenants in charge of our destroyers will risk the dangers of strong tides and misty weather, and think more of the main object than of writing up their navigating records. That seems to be the sum of Lieutenant Speke's offence, which upon a calm review gives us renewed confidence in the spirit of our naval officers. . For manœuvres at sea are meaningless if none of the risks of war are taken.

THE REASON OF THE SECOND ENQUIRY INTO THE COCH-RANE STREET COLLAPSE.

We hear-on what should be very good authority—that the reopening of the late enquiry was not at the inception of the local Government. The report of the first inquest was, we hear, considered so paltry and insufficient by the home authorities that very strong opinions were expressed by wire, and hence the enquiry crews, owing to the sailors being deprived of which finished on Wednesday. If our inthe general leave of absence customarily formation is incorrect, we hope the Government of the Colony will put us right.

COTTAM & CO. for the LATEST, SHAPES !

September 26th.

CLAIM FOR $276. Messrs, J. Rosselet and Company sued the Hongkong and Kowloon Wharf and Godown Company, Limited, to recover the sum of $276, as damages for the non-delivery, in January, 1900, of twelve cases of Bass and Company's Pale Ale, at $23 per case.

Mr. J. Hays represented the plaintiffs, and Mr. F. B. Deacon appeared on behalf of the defendants.

In opening the case, Mr. Hays explained that upon the arrival of the eases from Lor don they were placed in the Godown, and after the usual slight delay, while the ship was it harbour, the consignee went to the shipowners with his bill of lading and asked for it to be endorsed. In due course it was given to the Godown Company, and afterwards application was made for the goods. Eighteen cases were taken, and twelve were left in the Godown. On the 26th August, 1899, the plaintiff company were handed, by the defendant company, a short delivery note, which of course meant there was a balance of goods still in the godown. On the 20th January, 1900, Messis, J. Rosselet and Company Jent their shroff to the Godown Company with the short delivery note, and asked for delivery of the remaining twelve cases of ale. He was then informed that the cases had been sold by auction some time previously. After this application had been made unfortunately the plaintiffi mislaid the short contract note and it was not found until the spring of the present year, when the Godown Company were written to and asked for the 12 cases, or to refund the bioney. In replying, the defe dants referred tham to the shipowners, the N. ppon Yusen Kaisha. The defendant Company, he submitted, could not deny having made a contract, as the short delivery note clearly showed that whatever transactions or dealings they had with the steamship Company at. had nothing to do with the contract which was subsequently made by them with the plaintiff.'

The plaintiff, who deposed that he was merchant and commission agent carrying on business in the Colony, bore out counsel's opening remarks and said that in his dealings with the Godown Company he had previously left goods with them for several months.

Mr. Deacon elicited in cross-examining the witness, that he first received the invoice of the shipment of the goods in the early part of August, 1899. The bill of lading (produced) was made out to order, and the endorsement upon it was addressed to the defendant company. He did not think the Nippon Yusen Kaisha would have been satisfied. upon first seeing the bill of lading, that he had received the goods. He was fully aware that if goods were in the store for an unreasonable length of time, the Godown Company disposed of them.

Lo San Nam, shroff, at present employed by a watchmaker in Queen's Road, said, that for some time he was engaged by the plaintiff company, whom he left in April, 1900. He proved that he had been sent to the Godown to fetch the twelve cases of beer and that he was told it had previously been sold by auction.

Mr. Deacon, in opening the case for the defendant company, said the chief line of defence to the action was that there was never any contract between the defendant company and the plaintiffs. There were -further points in the defence, but that was the chief one upon which others somewhat relied. The points in dispute in the action very seriously affected the defendant's business, which was a very large one indeed, and which, if the plaintiffs succeeded, would be materially disturbed. Even supposing the note was a good contract and there was good consideration for the using of it, there was a time limit fixed by that contract within which it must be accepted, and that that time limit was binding as an essential feature of the contract.

Mr. Robert J. McGower, acting secretary to the Godown Company, then gave evidence and the Court adjourned for tiffin.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

(Hyon Our Own Correspondent.) LONDON, August 30th. PRINCE CHUN.

. The ludicrous position of affairs in Germany bids fair to rob Prince Chun's mission of such small remainder of humiliation as the merciful instincts of civilization have left to it. The eighteen-year old boy is, under direction, playing his cards skilfully, but, though he might conceivably save his face with any other European monarch, it seems improbable that the Kaiser will allow his dignity to be slighted by the subterfuge of diplomatic illness. The Emperor having signified his determination to exact three bows from the apologising envoyed China. is not likely to depart from that very proper demand, although it is stated that once the expiation is made, it is his intention to extend a gracious hospitality to the embassy. Meantime an interested public is inquiring what wile be done if born parties remain obdurate) The Emperer is much inconvenienced by the delay, a he will not go to Berlin prior to be arrival of Prince Chun, lest it should appear at the latter is obliging him to await the embassy arrival. It is noticeable that though the Princepus to be lodged and attended as became his rok at the Orangers, Potsdam, the arrangement by his reception were calculated to emphasio the inicatul nature of the visit. The programme somed subject to the final COTTAL & COTTAL & LINES SHAPES IN consent of the Emperor, provided that the Prince and suite should be conveyed in procession from Potsdam station through Berlin to the Kaiser's Palace. The imperative need of impressing China with the salicity of an ambassador's person, having been realized by the authorities, at the very time when it began to be feared that the serious nature of the embassy was in a fair way to be forgotten. The position at present is undoubtedly ridiculous, and of boiler; but, as only condomning Bellevilles, neither Berlin nor any other capital is wholly if indeed it is entirely fair to go even as far as able to resist a desire to laugh, while waiting | that. for the next move.

THE CHINESE ARMY.

The substance of an interview with Mr. Brill, lately in the employ of the Chinese Government, has been cabled home from Calcutta, and though the Press, being in August mood, has hardly commented thereon, a good deal of quiet discussion makes itself heard among China folk at home. Mr. Brill states of his own knowledge, that the German and Japanese drill instructors were never dismissed from their posts in the Imperial Service during the toubles last y. ar, although for some 'time they abstained from active interference in Chinese army affairs. Now they are all hard at work drilling the troops and advising on the military re-organization introduced by Chang Chi tung. Mr. Bril further points out, that the importation of arms clause in the treaty, is absolutely futile, seeing that arsenals and gun-factories exist in fair numbers throughout the Empire, and are for the most part well equipped and efficiently

L directed. MR. BRENAN'S OPINION.

Mr. Brenan who arrived in London from Shanghai by the last mail has, also been interviewed for the Press, with the object of obtaining his views on the existing condition of affairs. His estimate is extremely gloomy. Mr. Brenan holds that "the position of foreign affairs in China is to-day far worse than it was before the international occupation, . . formerly there was an impression that foreign interests were, at anyrate to a certain extent identical, but recent events have shown more clearly to the Chinese how divergent those interests really are, and have revealed the many jealousies existing between the foreign Powers consequent upon the various lines of policy followed." These and all the many other pessimistic criticisms, made by officials supposed to be "in the know," are producing among general public at home, a feeling of impatience, amounting very closely to despair. The ed tor of a London paper said to some weeks ago, that he considered it useless to devote space to the consideration of Chinese affairs, beyond recording telegrams, because his public had ceased to take interest in a subject which all the experts united in making more complicated, and more gloomy, whenever they took pen in hand. The same attitude is observable among intelligent men and women, who, in all other Imperial subjects take a really sympathetic even enthusiastic concern. "China" they are apt to say in effect. "China is a nightmare, let us forget it so far as we are able." Without crying peace where there is no peace, there is a growing feeling among the little coterie of China-folk, which from old association, or other cause it profoundly interested in the affairs of the Far-East, that English people should have brought home to their imagination, more of the greatness of our stake, the magnitude of our enterprise, aye and of our success in China, than is usually suggested, in the outpourings of our big men from Peking, Shanghai, Hongkong,

RUSSIA AND THIBET. Russia's gradually maturing plans in Thibet are are only just receiving from a slow-thinking public the attention which they merit. I was felt that there must be something behind the prospective visit of the Czar to France, and that something with Thibet, is skilfully handled by Mr. Malcom Fraser in the Daily Express. Throughout the war in China, Russian envoys were busy undermining her, influence in the adjoining country. They suggested the despatch of an embassy to inquire into the power of China, and the Grand Llama readily swallowed the bait. The Nuncio returned and described the suzerain Government as utterly impotent—so that now Chinese influence is a thing of the past, replaced by the great and growing inclination to invite the protection of Russia. Thibet touches our Indian frontier and is for the moment of greater importance to the Gaar than ever before, by reason of the check we have administered to him over the Bagdad

Alongside these various little diplomatic schemes must be placed the determined effort of Russia to obtain an outlet on to the Medi terranean by means of a coaling station in the Piracus. This would greatly menace our toute to India, more especially if the co-operation of France were enlisted, as presumably it will be. Wherefore the Czar interchanges pretty compliments with President Loubet, while Count Lausdorff indulges in a conversation with M

THE NATY. The Navy has been a good deal in evidence, this week,—there have been the raparts of the Rations Committee, and of the trial between Minerva and Hyacinth, added to these things there has been the criticism of a German naval expert on our Fleet; in which he gives his opinion that it would not require a very strong 'hostile navy to defeat us; while against the French, poor little England would stand no chance at all. As a further incentive to the extension and modernising, of our first line of defence, this severe depreciation may be valuable. but regarded as matter of fact, the prevailing The Rations report, though it observes there is no lecitimate ground of complaint, recommands two additional meals per diem for hungry Jack, and the abolition of "stoppages." OTTAM & CO. for SNOW'S and BUCK-

INGHAM and HECHTS BOOTS and

The further points of the Hyacinth and Minervo trials add very little to what I mentioned two or three weeks ago, - 50 far as this experiment went, the Belleville hotlers did not do so well as the cylindrical. Experts, however, point out that the Belleville is by no means the best water-tube boiler, and that therefore, this trial ought not to be magnified into a final settlement of the question between the two types

THE YEOMANRY.

.The unfit Yeomanry are trickling back in dozens and half-dozens after seeing three months service, voyages included. Much indignation is expressed at the expense to which this country has been needlessly put by the enlistment of men not only incompetent, but in many cases medically unfit. These useless individuals who could neither shoot nor rides received a wage of 5/- per day, while a fully trained Sergeant of Regulars, a man proved to some extent in character, as well as in knowledge and experience is only paid 2/11. Facto like these affect recruiting for the Army to a serious extent. The Imperial Yeomanry are very indignant that this scratch lot of incapables should be known as members of their Corps, and point out that it will deter the right class of men from joining. Recruiting for the Yeomanry has indeed fallen off greatly, but the reason is to be found in the large number, returned from South Africa, months ago, and still waiting to be paid.

LOST, STOLEN, OR STRAYED? There is an extremely funny story going the round of the papers at present, which states as a positive fact that a company of Yeomanry (the 98th) numbering two officers and nearly 300 men has been lost for over a year. They cannot be found anywhere in Great Britain, and Aldershot, where they trained reported the company as gone to South Africa. No transport owns to having shipped them, and the embarkation officers in Cape Colony and Natal state positively that the 98th never arrived. Nevertheless, letters come from time to time from individual members of the Company describing the fighting. Inquiries directed to all commanding officers have failed to locate the gallant. Yorkshiremen. The War Office hopes that the opening of the Pay Office in London will eventually lead to the discovery of their whereabouts. The official version is now awaited with interest, for, though, as stated, the story is impossible, there appears to be some foundation in fact for the opinion that irregulaities have occurred respecting the 98th and that the Company's movements are veiled in mystery.

A SENSATIONAL TRIAL Although the trial of Sergeant Marten is freely compared to that of Dreyfus, and the German military system_is condemned all over the Continent, there has been no spontaneous outburst of indignation, such as marked the condemnation of the unfortunate French officer. The general sentiment in Europe is that the revision which is already promised, will result in a verdict more in accordance with the evidence, which even the Public Prosecutor admitted did not justify a graver finding than' manslaughter. Marten and Hickel have now been twice tried on the capital charge and the decree of General von Allen enacts that Hickel, who has been acquitted both times, should again stand beside his comrade in the dock, an arrangement which to the English seems little short of monstrous. However, since the plan necessitates revision of the trial of Marten, the German public are inclined to pass over the injustice to Hickel.

· CRICKET.

The race for first place in the cricket aggregate is drawing to its close, and lies practically between Abel with 2943, Fry 2902, and Tyldersley with 2781, all three having still 4 innings before them, prior to the close of the scason. Fry's performance is the most valuable, seeing that he obtained his runs in 41 innings, while Abel has had 59, and Tyldersly 53. No player except Ranji has ever topped 3,000. Fry has also created a new record by making 4 successive centuries in two matches-106, 1 209, 149, & 105,

THE NEEDS OF THE BRITISH FLEET.

Engineering says that the urgent lesson taught by recent naval warfare is the clamant need for quick-firing, high-powered guns, well Am tion, a quantity of DAMAGED BUTTER protected by armour of the highest resisting in I h and 2 h Tins. quality. There is no need to enforce the importance of long range; any ship with this advantage can "play" with a better or equally armoured vessel having artillery of less power; and as to gun protection, it may be recalled that when the American ships attacked Ceryera's fleet in their ill-fated rush from Santiago, the Spanish crews were driven from their gun positions by a hail of I and 2-pounder shot while the ships and their deck structures were pounded by the 6 in. quick-firers and the larger breechloaders of their opponents. Had the Spanish gun positions been adequately protected, and their gunners enabled to continue fighting their weapons, there would have been a less one-sided contest. It is of vital importance therefore, to consider the rapidity of fire and power of guns of several of Britain's ships, which, although constructed only a few years ago, are deficient owing to the recent increase in the energy of guns, It is impossible to re-design these cruisers, but new guns of greater power and a higher rate of fire could easily be fitted at little cost, adding greatly to AMERICAN ASPARAGUS & DESSERT the fighting efficiency of the ships. Probably one of the most hopeful auguries is found in the fact that Admiral May, who did such splendid service to the navy by his exper imental and research work in the gunnery ship Excellent, is now Controller of the Navy 19 succession to Admiral Wilson, who himself introduced so many improvements linto the

A BEACHCOMBER KNIFES THE SAILORS

HOME WATCHMAN.

About to o'clock last night, says the Straits Times of 18th instant, an Irish-American named McGann, said to be a beachcomber, attempted to force his way into the Sailors Home where he was not residing at the time. Aomad Sah, the Kling watchman on cuty at the gate of the Home, prevented him entering the premises, and there pon a dispute ensued. Then Me-Gann deliberately drew an ordinary penknife from his pocket, and stabbed the watchman over the heart, in the ear, on the shoulder, and inflicted two or three other wounds on his body. The unfortunate Kling shouted for help and McGann ran away. He was at once pursued by some European sailors who were staying at the Home. But McGann evaded capture, and one of his would-be capturers, a German, received a wound in the shoulder. Some European policemen who were in Police Bahru, next door to the Sailors Home, heard the noise and went to the assistance of the watchman. Sergeant Connor, the Gunpowder Inspector, found the watchman streaming with blood and, having ascertained from him the direction in which his assailant had gone, he also gave chase. McGann tried hard to outdistance the police officer and dashed along Coleman Street into Hill Street. He however, was no match for the Sergeant, who wears a medal which he won in Ireland some time ago for the 100 yards Championship. The race had lasted more than a quarter of an hour however, ere Sergt. Conner came up with his man near the steps at Fort Canning and arrested him. On searching him a razor was found in his possession. After he had been conveyed to the lock-up the Sergeant returned to the place where he arrested him and, in a drain Class FOREIGN and CHINESE RISKS at close to the spot, he found a bloodstained penknife. The watchman was sent to hospital and it is thought that, although his wounds are serious, he will recover.

This morning McGann was arraigned before Mr. Sarwar at the Police Court and was remanded till the 25th to allow the prosecutor to appear in Court.

THE CHINESE MISSION OF APOLOGY TO JAPAN.

H. E. Na Tung, Chinese Ambassador of Repentance for the murder of the late. Chancellor Sugiyama, with five of his suite, were received in the Phœnix Hall at 10.30 a.m. on the 13th inst. by His Majesty the Emperor, says a recent. Kokumin Shimbun.

The Ambassador first read a note which explains his mission entrusted by the Emperor of China. He wishes that the Great Emperor of Japan will, endeavour to maintain peace of the Then Mr. Na Tung handed to His Majesty a letter of apology witten by the Emperor of China. In this letter, the Emperor Kansu stated that the outrage of the 5th moon of last year came unexpectedly and Chancellor Sugiyama lost his life. The Emperor of China sincerly regrets that he could not prevent the disturbances forth-with. He further thanks our Emperor for sending troops to the Capital and expressing always impartial views in connection with the negotiations, thereby easing the minds of the populace and assisting in the essential way the re-establishment of peace in the East. Finally he hopes that the Great Emperor will be good enough to keep the old friendship, forgiv ng the crimes recently com-

In reply, the Emperor of Japan accepts the apology for the murder of Chancellor Sugiyama by Imperial soldiers. He expresses his hope that the relations with China will become closer than before. He also wishes the speedy realization of the great plans of reforming the state institutions on the part of the Emperor of

HOW TO MANAGE A SULTAN.

The Sultan of Lingga and Rhio has paid a visit to Java, and has had an interview with the Governor-General. The Sultan had long kep aloof from direct relations with the Nether lands India Government, to which he is vassal His father and predecessor was still more averse to any such dealings. Matters only began to mend in 1900, when a new Controller took charge of the district. He had great difficulties to contend with. The native head men thwarted him, and they were backed by influential parties at Singapore. . The Controller succeeded in winning them over, and then did them a good turn financially and fiscally. The Sultan is now won over, and is making a tour in Java as token of submission. PESTILENCE.

" Cholera is now raging at Sourabaya, Samarang, and Batavia. At the date of last advices it was reported to be on the decrease a Batavia. It is pointed out that the death statistics published fall below the true figures. Relations of native patients who had died of the disease often do not report the deaths, from fear of the Government burning the dead people's belongings. They object to giving up a portion or the whole of their inheritance to meet sanitary ideas which go beyond their limited understanding. The Government have taken measures to check the spread of the epidemic. A rich Chinaman at one place has undertaken to meet the expense of supplying medicines to Chinese patients. At Samarang, the Chinese sought to ward off the disease by processions with idols and with firing of crackers. This, they fancy, will frighten away the cholera demon.

The suspiciousness of the natives in Java is readily aroused by anything unusual about the ring of guilders. The counterfeiting of coin is nothing uncommon there. The other day some guilder pieces bearing the image of Queen Wilhelmina were rejected by both Javanese and Chinese, owing to the dullness of the ring The coins, on examination, proved to be genuine, but they had been dented by having been often thrown upon stones and hard objects to test the ring. Many coins struck in her father's reign have also fallen short in the

A crying evil in Java is the insufficiency of the circulating medium, to the advantage of money-changers. The result is that, to meet the need, much spurious and counterfeit coin is current. The Government has the power to swell the volume of the currency, but sees no need for it.

A Chinaman in Java has hit upon the idea of utilising used matches by putting new heads on them, and has asked leave from the Government to turn the invention to his own profit. The hindrance is that the Government draws, a revenue from a customs duty and an excise on matches.e He was referred to the Director of Finance. It is said that the Finance Department intends to levy an excise on the China. mans' tinkered lucifers. The point in dispute is whether the tax shall be as high on them as on new made matches.

The population of Java is over 20 millions. The island is over-peopled, and there is urgent need of emigration to the neighbouring islands which are collectively sixteen times the size of Java, but are only peopled by seven millions of inhabitants. (11.)

At Solo, in mid Java, the panther in the menagerie of Warren's Circus played a trick one night by getting out of its cage. It turned freedom to account by eating up a watchdog. The next morning the panther was found in the kitchen-of the dog's owner, and was killed by a well aimed shot.

The Court of Justice at Batavia has granted the extradition of a Chinaman named Tan Bong Sai charged with murder at Singapore. The Straits Settlements Government had asked for the extradition. Tan Bong Sai was arrested in East Sumatra.

SOUTH AFRICAL

Reuter's Pretoria correspondent says that Lord Kitchener's proclamation has produced no very apparent results. The authorities are permitting the wives of the men in the field to go and warn their husbands of the consequences of resistance.

The Daily Telegraph, in a despatch from Pretoria, says they are authorised to state that Lord Kitchener is not going home, and will finish his task. General Lyttleton replaces! General Hildyard, who has gone home on furlough, Boer langers at Fouriesberg and Witkop have been captured, with wagons, cattle, horses and prisoners. General Barker's and General Elliott's columns have captured all Boer convoys proceeding to Bethlehem. De Wet and Steyn fled from Reitz on the approach of Colonel Rimington.

The Portuguese of Mozambique have seized. at Ressano Garcia a large quantity of cartridges, powder, rifles, dynamite, and other warlike stores abandoned by Pienaars, after the fighting at Koomati Poort. Many arrests have been made at Johannes-berg, including the former Third Public Prosecutor in the Transvaal, on charges of espionage, and, itris believed, in connection with ex-Governor Krause.

Prominent Burghers of Pretoria will be compelled to accompany the trains of the Pietersburg line to prevent train wrecking.

Gensburg mine, in the Rand, restarts work this month with sixty stamps. The mines are recruiting native labour in the Pietersburg district, with the permission of Lord Kitchener, and natives are arriving freely.

The Cape Legislative Councillor Vandenheever has been arrested on a charge of concealing arms.

An armoured train has been derailed by Boers at Taungs. Three men were killed and five wounded.

UNITED STATES.

The American authorities are convinced that the assassination affair is a deliberate plot, and are searching for suspicious men who immediately preceded Czolgorz, which is the assailant's real name, in shaking hands with the President. -Czolgorz was born at Detroit, and proclaims himself an Anarchist. He says he has no confederate, and is impenitent. He is convinced that the United States Government is all wrong, and that the best remedy was to kill President McKinley. The prisoner shows no sign of insanity. Five arrests have been made at Chicago and two at Cleveland.

Six men and three women have been arrested at Chicago, charged with conspiracy with Czolgorz to assassinate President McKinley, and three more men, alleged to be anarchists, have been arrested. Crolgorz has signed a confession, in which he says that he acted solely under the influence of anarchist literature. and lectures. He declares that he had no accomplices,

The crime at Buffalo has extinguished French hopes of the Czar visiting Paris. The strictest surveillance on anarchists has been instituted in France, and long lists of undesirables have been prepared, who will be arrested on boguacharges before the Czar's arrival, and will be aftewards released.

The protocol has been signed at Peking. Friendly speeches were exchanged on the occasion. Prince Ching said he deplaced the horrors of the past year, and declared that, China would faithfully fulfil all her obligations.

A Morning Post message from Shanghai says that the punitive clauses of the Protocol! have been reduced to a mere farce. The importation of arms has increased. The collection. of the new taxes for the purposes of the indemnity has caused serious (?, rioting) in Shantung.

Count von Waldersee, in a farewell letter to General Gaselee, dated and June, thanks him for loyal and knightly support, and praises the excellent condition of the British and Indian

ANCIENT DRINKS. Just at present even the most rabid teetotaler is interested in drinking. With a temperature rivalling that of the Red Sea, where "you drink bottled beer with one hand and wine it off with the other," many of us, as we pant through the time between drinks, may have wondered what the world was like before imbibing had become the fine art it now is. For, mark you, the modern drink is very modern indeed. There was a time when the hot weather drink, the "long drink," brandy and and soda, cocktails, "John Gollinses," and all the many concoctions of aerated waters and spirits in which our cousins across the Atlantic take such delight, were as much a mystery and unknown in these islands as once were toplaceo and the electric telegraph. The times of Queen Elizabeth, so "spacious" in most matters, were peculiarly limited and confined in the matter of " thirst-quenchers." Good Queen Bess was militantly British, and she would have discouraged-probably she did discourage—the drinking of foreign wines or Elizaga, T. S. liquors. What a delightfully attractive glimpse | Fitzsimmons, C. A. it is we gain of her from the chronicler who tells us how on a visit she paid to the University of Oxford she halted on her return journey at the top of Headington-hill, and, looking back, blessed the learned city which lay, below her, and there and then her gracious Majesty was brought and quaffed to its last nut-brown drop a quart of ale from a silver drinking cup, which was fetched from the neighbouring hostelry. Throughout medicival times, ale was indeed the drink of all drinks in England: high and low, rich and poor drank it on all occasions, and these occasions were, you may be sure, many, for if our ancestors lacked palate for the more refined products of the grape, they made up for their failure in this particular by the whole-hearted devotion with which they partook of nut-brown ale. The word got into the language, and became identified with the national life and the rural festivals to which i in part gave, names. Thus there were brideales, church-ales, clerk-ales, give-ales, lambales, leet-ales Midsummer-ales, Whitsunales, and so on, each, as is obvious, implying the unlimited consumption of the favourite drink at weddings, at the lambing season, at the sessions. There was Single Broth and Doub'e, and an ale-conner was an officer appointed in every court-leet to look to "the assize and goodness of ale and beer," and doubtless to "drop, on" the salse Boniface who palmed off the inferior on his customers at the superior price. It was not until Stuart days that spirits were drunk in England to any large extent, though years before that "time there were wines to be had, and chief of these was Sack, or Canary, for it is believed that these two names were used indiscriminately to describe the wines of the sherry genus as distinguished from sweet wines. By the "Sack," or Sweet Sack," was often meant a mixture of the sherry with port, (Ye gods! what heads our ancestors must have had !) and the term Canary was sometimes used to signify! white wines seasoned with sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg, roasted apples, and eggs. In truth, these heady mixtures were rather after the heart of the worthies of the fourteenth centuries. For instance, there was what was called the posset, a drink of hot milk curdled by some strong infusion. This must have been a species of "night-cap," the equivalent of our modern "grog," for Macbeth says of the guards who attended the king at night. "I have drugged their possets," and sackposset was usually brought up to the bridegroom at the end of the bridal festivities. Malmsey, too, historic malmsey, in a butt of which, it is alleged, "false-hearted Clarence" met his end, was drunk sparingly, a wine grown principally in those days in the Ægean and Levant. The earliest wines of which the world has any record are those of Asia. Classical writers are full of the ruby," as Dick Shiveller loved to call it. In Romethere were two ands known as "merum" and "mixtum." The ast was the pure wine, which was very seldom dank; while the "mixtum" was the juice of the grape skilfully adulterated and sweetened for luxurious palates. Inthe carliest mediæval times nasgundy was producing wines which were accounted the choicest to be found on the tables of the wealthy, but it was long before England took up the craze for red wines, and became, as she

THE STOWFORD TRAGEDY.

Thrill had followed thrill, and Stowford was the corrugated iron chapel on the green, toge- a tadpole. Bill Horsfield-he ain't done no ther with the advent of the "preacher man," work this ten weeks, but I wouldn't go there who announced that his week-day lectures | -his talk is that dreadful at times. Ah, would be emphasised by limelight views, when, | there's----" thud! came the news that the old manor house. years-ever since Miser Carew's tragic deathdon. There was the parson's wife all of a tremble, and arranging a bazaar for the week after their arrival. Mr. and Mrs. John Carewbold as brass-didn't care a rap about the ghost that had walked the cypress avenue all those years! Now for some happenings! Old | he's just out at the back, to kill a pig that was Betty Cole, it was said, had sneezed nine times ordered;" and a harrowing succession of yells running—traditionally a most significant sign. | at the moment told that Dabbs was busy. "Oh, There were the flaming bills stuck up all over it's nothing, ma'am-they always make a deal. the market town, near by, and two on the vil- of noise!" Mildred and her party had turned lage post-office itself; Mr. Carew was going | quite pale. "What was it for? Oh, the voting! to stand as Tory condidate for the constituency | If you'll just step in here a moment—he can't in the forthcoming by-election. Rich? Why, leave off for a minute, you see. I'll send him he had married an heiress ! People were saying | in.". that he lit his pipe with five pound notes. And they were coming down that day by the six o'clock train,

" Put on the children's best clothes and mind the cheer!" the parson's wife had feverishly

And now it was six fifteen, and all Stowford was straining its eyes down the road to the station. ... When at last an open carriage swung round the bend, and Stowford saw a gentleman in a silk hat pointing out landmarks to the sweetest young creature in furs and ruffleswell, the hush could have been out with a butter-knife. The knot of men at the signpost removed their pipes and cleared their throats, the white-aproned old women began curtseying automatically in their doorways, and the parson's wife danced with excitement behind her. parlor curtain. Ah, dear! And now the gen. tleman had put a hand to his waistcoat pocke -he was going to signify his appreciation by throwing out a hundred-pound note ! No ; that hope flickered out as he fitted a glass to his eye. "What is the matter with them—or with us?".

he was, saying, with a laugh. "Look at them all staring, Mildred! I'm certain I shall laugh f I have to address a crowd like that !" "The idea! You had better not!" Mildred nurmured, her eyes shining with expectancy.

If you begin in that way, I shall never listen oil. Oh, I know you are cynical, but we shall lec. I have the sublimest faith in the intelligence of your obscure rural labourer. His instincts have not been properly drawn ut; he is never rightly appealed to; he Carlton Carew !"-A. of India. s so much rich land left fallow. A vicked waste! Practically, he has no voice in the affairs of the nation, because he is not shown how to vote intelligently. It's my dream John, and you know it ! It won't be my fault if the people in these villages are not roused to a sense of their own power and responsibility

We're going to--" "Ah, yes! In six weeks you and your lady riends are going to till the soil thoroughly, and nake them all vote Tory! We won't quarrel I don't prove my anxiety, dear!"

"We will ! If you do let that Smythe-Hopkins win the seat away from the party again 'll never forgive you," she said, with a tightening of her sweet lips. "But it won't be; I feel it. Do you know, the agent tells that not half the voters in these villages ever trouble to record. We're going to change that. We shall begin with this Stowford on Monday, and make a complete round. There's a great work to be

And after that a lot of talk and tea on the House terrace, ch?" He laughed again. "Well, we shall see,"

And by that time the manor house was in and speculate as to what would happen first. AVOID ALL RISK OF OUTBREAK BY Aw, dear, they'd forgotten to cheer-parson's Sharpe. wife was that mad! When they wanted the new church organ so bad, too!

Up till eleven o'clock on Manday morning nothing had happened; then Joe Pringle, who was always out of work, came tearing along with Mr. C. Chenery, Mr. G. Anderson, Mr. A. word that a carriage full of ladies was coming Jennings, Miss Eacott. To Hongkong : Mrs. up the road like mad. Yes, it was the new Hatherwell, Major Scott. To Bangkok: Mrs. lady of the manor, all smiles and scepts; the Wood and child, Mr. C. J. Davidson. From canvass had begun in earnest. At the very Marseilles. To Hongkong: Miss Radcliffe, first cottage the carriage stopped; Mildred and Mr. E. T. Palmer, Mrs. Bond. her little party swept up to the door in stately knookers to these doors! Mever mind, knuck. Bent, Mrs. Low and child, Lieut, Psy, Lieut, Lat. 17.48, and Long. Lat.

les wore made before knockers. Dear. dear, surely this house is inhabited?

"I'm afraid you won't make anyone hear, my lady," ventured the parson's wife from her doorway opposite. "There is only a deaf old soul living there." "Thank you you so much! Well, we will try the next. . . . Ah, good morning ! what a sweet little cherub you have there !" russet-faced young woman, carrying an ordinary baby, had appeared. "Would you ask your husband to study this paper? I suppose I could not see him for a moment?" And the young woman perspired palpably.

"I-I wish you could speak to him, ma'am; he's so much in the beerhouse lately, ma'am. I'm sure, only last night I had to fetch him. He'd ha' laid in the ditch there all night."

"Oh, dear, that is very sad. You see, we wanted some idea as to whether he will vote the right way."

"Vote? Well, he's up at Pigg's farm, ma'am. You go down that road, over the warren and the 'tater field, and out by the mill. I dunno as he'll vote, ma'am—but Joe Pringle there 'ud take you." --

"I think "-Mildred's voice had lost a little of its rich confidence—"I think we will not trouble Mr. Pringle just yet. Of course, I forgot—all the men are away at work. Now, if

"There's Soloman Dabbs at home, ma'am, in a state of suppressed ferment. Scarcely had | third house down; and Patsy Schadbolt-only it done gasping at the mysterious erection of he's blind and deaf, and don't know a mole from

"We'll try Mr. Dabbs, thank you," Mildred was going to be thrown open. Closed up for | put in, with an attempt at cheeriness; and out they filed. "Dear me, are these children it was going to be galvanised into life by the following us? And just look at that old dame nephew and his pretty young wife from Lon- | bobbing up and down all the time-I really believe she thinks we are distributing gifts! Third house, did she say? This is it. . . . . -is Mr. Dabbs interested in the election, my good woman?" "Dabbs? Oh, yes, ma'am! Well, ma'am,

At the end of five minutes she came back: cultiseying regretfully. 4 I'm real sorry, lady, but he won't budge. He's narvous o'ladies at any time. He says he don't know much about the voting 'cept what he's heard, but the other gentleman's been trying to get their wages put up for them-and the lord of the manor wouldn't, he says. He gets such ideas into his W. H. CONNER, American ship, 1,614. Colcord, head, ma'am. Give him this paper? Well, 'yes, I'm sure-but, there, ma'am, we can't read, neither on us. There warn't no school

"Oh!" breathed Mildred. "We'll try the next village on our list, I think," And back to the carriage they swept.

It looked as if in less than twenty minutes Stowford had pulled the bottom brick out of the dream.

The poll was declared, and the astounding igures read: "W. Smythe Hopkins, 3,241 John Carew, 1,300,"-----

Carew sat back, laughing heartily.

"All that trouble and bother and expense for nothing! I told you: that comes of not being a local man! They never took me seriously."

And Mildred spun round hysterically. There were real tears beading in her beautiful eyes. "And why? Nothing of the sort! I wanted n you from the Ladies' Gallery. Honest, simple | you to take a double name, and you wouldn't. people! Such material as this is like virgin -It would have made all the difference in the world-nearly every man in the House goes in with a double name! Beaten? No, I'm not. You'll put up again at the very first chance and you'll be billed all over the place as John
